NO USE FOR THEM.
Concerning Certain Relics of the Past—Dogs that have had their Day.

George Stephenson's "Rocket" and the magnificent locomotives of to-day are built upon the same general principle yet the machine with which the great engineer astonished his age is interesting now only as an illustration of the beginning of his invention There were plasters with holes in them long before BENSON'S CAPCINE POROUS PLASTER surprised both the public and the physicians and the triumph of the Capcine is founded upon the partial successes or the utter failures of its predecessors Everything of value in the old porous plaster is retained in the Capcine but at this point all comparison ends, and contrast begins For example
The old plasters were slow in their action, the Capcine is quick and sure
The old plasters lacked the power to do more than to impart slight, temporary relief in cases easy of treatment the Capcine penetrates the system and permanently cures the troubles for which it is recommended
The old plasters depended for any good results they might attain, upon an accident of their makers and the naked faith of their wearers the Benson's reaches its ends by means of the scientific combination of the rare medicinal ingredients which it contains
In brief, the old plasters, like Stephenson's discarded engine are switched off the track, while the Benson's goes on its way winning golden opinions from all sorts of people
Yet in this very fact lies the leading danger to the people who buy and use this reliable and scientific remedy "Hypocrisy is the tribute vice pays to virtue" Imitation is the concession failure makes to success Benson's Plasters are parodied in name and style.
Beware of swindles The genuine have the word CAPCINE cut in the centre Price 25 cents. Seabury & Johnson, Chemists, New York

WINTER EVENINGS AT HOME

[From the Maine Farmer]

How few can measure the influence going out from the home circle, where on these winter evenings parents and children gather for mental and moral improvement The short day's work is done the frost makes fantastic pictures upon the window panes the bright stars look down from a cold wintry sky but within there is the cheer and glow of a happy home Here, more than in the schools the true and lasting character is formed The education of the home becomes part of the nature Here is the real foundation of things A large proportion of the unfortunate children that go to make up the great army of criminals have been waifs upon the sea of life, drifting hither and thither without a purpose, without a plan, without a home Education that does not take into account the very beginnings of life is fatally defective and does not deserve the name of education What the world most needs to day is character real, true genuine character The church needs it to go with its boisterous professions and elegant trappings, rites and ceremonies, every department of life needs it In order to give character we must get hold of the children as early in life as possible The kind of instruction that can be given by parents at home on these winter evenings is just the kind of instruction that the world is hungering and thirsting for The home is the real place for character building, and if the work in all cases were well done there would be less need of poor houses, insane asylums, penitentiaries, prisons, jails and houses of correction

We have been led into this train of thought by reading the excellent letter of Mrs Robie wife of our Governor, read at the recent Grange jubilee meeting in Biddeford on the subject of ' How the winter evenings should be spent on the farm ' We publish the letter of Mrs Robie in full

DEAR BROTHERS AND SISTERS —The discussion in regard to 'how the winter evenings should be spent on the farm ' at one of our recent meetings interested me very much I wanted to say something at the time but could not bring my courage to the point, so I send you a few hastily written thoughts which were suggested to me at the time One brother thought the evenings might be spent in mending tools and doing little odd jobs to facilitate the work of the summer This is well, but all the time should not be spent in that way The farmer has very little or no time for mental improvement or recreation during the spring, summer and autumn months If he devotes all his time in the winter to the farm he has none at all If he has children they will dislike it if there is no time for recreation ' All work and no play makes Jack a dull boy ' It would seem that if farmers wish their sons to remain on the farm they must make home attractive A child is educated more at home than at school It is at the fireside that his character is formed Mothers have much to do in moulding the characters of their sons—the well spread table, the cheerful fire, the pictures on the wall the bright light, all have their refining influences and help to make the moral atmosphere of a home. No one can measure the influence it has on the soul of a child Every talent manifested should be cultivated Love of music and the poets should be encouraged A little girl being asked what was the best book next to the Bible replied, 'Longfellow's poems ' She had probably heard them read at the fireside and the pure thoughts of the gentle poet had found an echo in her own pure soul. Every mother should know just what books her child reads. The child is father of the man, and if his tastes for reading are early cultivated in the right direction, his character will be moulded accordingly Edward Everett, in his life of Washington, says, "The character of Washington, like many other eminent men, was moulded by his mother, who brought up her children in habits of frugality, diligence and virtue Among the few books which belonged to the family, and still preserved at Mt Vernon is a well worn copy of Sir Matthew Hale's Contemplations, and it is not difficult to point out in the character of Washington some practical exemplifications of the Christian life as laid down by that illustrious magistrate "

The great artist, Benjamin West, said that the tears of his mother made him a painter. She looked upon the drawing he had made of his little sister as she lay in her cradle, and saw in the crude attempt, with a mother's prophetic eye, the future greatness in her son, and the tears which fell upon it inspired his whole life The Greeks looked to music and the poets to familiarize youth with a love of virtue and hatred of vice and the creation of a grand and pure character These formed a large part of the education of their youth on account of their refining influence upon the soul Children should also be taught early to be useful, that it is honorable and praiseworthy to be always employed for themselves or the good of others, that no kind of labor is degrading if it is necessary for the comfort of the home, that a person is not lowered by his occupation, but that what he is himself gives dignity to his labor, and raises it in the esteem of others It is not what we do, but what we are, that makes us honored and respected I call to mind a summer of long ago that I spent on a farm among the hills of New Hampshire, and which gave me my love for the farm.

A cousin had been spending the winter with me and invited me to go home with her to spend the summer. I shall never forget the impression made upon me by the beautiful landscape which met my view as we drove from the station to the home of my uncle * A perfect amphitheatre of hills as far as the eye could reach could be seen from the front door of the square, old fashioned house, which stood back from the village street on an elevated spot. A cordial welcome greeted me from the family, consisting of my uncle and aunt, and three cousins whom I had not seen, two boys and a younger sister. My uncle clasped me in his brawny arms and I loved him from that moment, as I looked into his grand, homely face beaming with honesty and affection, with a love which time never dimmed. I found, though carrying on a large farm, he was the village blacksmith, deacon in the church, and chorister in the choir, also the village post-office was kept in the house, which the older daughter had in charge The boys assisted their father and the girls were the only help of the mother. There was no hired help but the work was all done in the best manner There were many cows, poultry, pigs and sheep to be cared for, but the labors were shared, no one seemed to be overworked and there was always time for recreation I have thought since, that it was the systematic management which made the wheels run so smoothly But what made this bright and pleasant home seem so sweet to me was the faith in God * which was the rule of their life The blessing of God was always invoked at the well spread table, and morning and evening prayer ascended from the family altar The evening hymn was always sung by the whole family with the older daughter accompanying on the organ I remember that I used to think that heaven could not be a more peaceful and happy place than this home I don t know how they spent their winter evenings for I never visited them again The father, mother and two daughters have crossed the river within a few years The older son stands at the head of his profession as a physician in a city in Massachusetts The younger is a first class mechanic The old house is closed, the farm is unoccupied Most of the property was spent on the children to fit them for usefulness in this life There was not much left beside the farm, but the memories of that happy home must be a far better legacy than stocks or land, and I am sure their home in heaven cannot, to those who have gone, be much more sweet than that in the old farm house among the New Hampshire hills

OLD OCEAN'S ANGRY MOOD

UNUSUALLY SEVERE WEATHER EXPERIENCED ON THE ATLANTIC

Bad weather must be expected on the Atlantic during the winter month but for continued gales, tremendous head sea and blinding snow squalls and hail storm the last fortnight, in the opinion of the captains of the several steamers and sailing vessels that have recently arrived at New York has proved to be more severe and fraught with greater danger to all westerly bound craft than any similar period recalled by them for many years Long voyages in consequence have been the rule and not until Sunday was the extraordinary list of overdue steamers so reduced as to quiet the fears of those directly interested in their safety Fortunately nothing of a very serious nature had befallen the arrivals for the twenty-four hours ending Sunday evening nor had any wreck been seen, but the officers were all quite sure that the Atlantic was in the ugliest mood and felt grateful that they were once more in port

HURRICANES AND PYRAMIDAL SEAS

The steamer Devon arrived after a voyage of nineteen days from Avonmouth in the Bristol Channel Captain Lindsay Morice reported that fair weather was had and good progress made for five day, when in latitude 51 longitude 34, they encountered a terrific hurricane from the north west The sea soon resembled a boiling caldron, and the aneroids, which marked 28 20 vibrated like a vacuum gauge The force of the wind was appalling Officers and crew were required to use the greatest precaution in order to avert disaster to the vessel or accident to themselves Forty eight hours the gale continued without the least cessation and at times it seemed that the steamer would be lifted from the water and thrown bottom up Then there was a lull for a few hours and the exhausted crew obtained needed rest But ill luck pursued them as a gale from the south southwest, almost equal in severity to that just safely passed through demanded all hands at their posts of duty For days there was a succession of terrible gales from the south southwest and north west and such was the force of the wind that it threw the seas into pyramidal shapes As the pyramids formed they were capped with foam Hundreds were seen with every sweep of the eye As they melted away huge volumes of water struck the sides of the ship with such force that it seemed impossible for the iron plates to withstand the shocks The fear that some of these dissolving seas would board the steamer hourly increased Constant vigilance was required to prevent such a disaster, as the waves would have swept the decks and carried destruction and perhaps death before them This exceedingly bad weather continued 110 hours or nearly five days, when the wind moderated and the sea became smoother

During all this time of peril the speed of the steamer was greatly reduced which in a measure accounts for her long voyage. From the Banks until Thursday last there was an ugly swell to the sea toen mooth water and light northeasterly winds to port Captain Morice hopes that it will be a long time before he has another voyage of like danger and anxiety

THE STELLA S VOYAGE

The steamer Stella twenty four days from Amsterdam had excessively bad weather part of the voyage Strong south erly and easterly winds were experienced for six days, then calms and squalls for two days made matters uncomfortable for the seventy nine passengers on board and the officers At midnight on January 12th the vessel encountered a succession of heavy gales from the northwest, accompanied by fearful seas This continued for fourteen hours, when there was a lull but on the 17th inst gales from the west and northwest again lashed the sea into fury and for more than a day the vessel was in great peril Then as a little variety the tired officers and anxious passengers were treated to a blinding snow squall and again to a hailstorm, which proved particularly unpleasant Bad weather continued until the 18th inst

DEAD IN HIS CABIN

The bark Electra (of Boston) 125 days from Calcutta, arrived off Quarantine yesterday afternoon with the dead body of her master Captain Clark on board Captain Clark was in good health on leaving Calcutta, and continued so until about six weeks ago, when symptoms of dropsy set in and he grew gradually worse until death ended his sufferings on Thursday last. All the aid that could be given him under the circumstances was of little avail and as port was neared his dissolution seemed only a matter of hours His body will be sent to the eastward, where his family resides.

The Electra had a fair passage until off Hatteras, when she encountered a northwest gale which lasted three days It was the worst weather she experienced during her long voyage.

HIGH SEAS—BOATS SMASHED

The steamer France Captain Hauterine, fourteen days from Havre, with 376 passengers, had strong westerly and west northwest gales, with high seas much of the voyage, but sustained no serious damage.

The steamer Edith Godden, Captain Bennett, six days from Port Maria, Ja , ran into three or four heavy snow squalls and had strong northeasterly winds the last two days of the voyage.

The steamer Frisia, Captain Kuhlewein, sixteen days from Hamburg, with 376 passengers, experienced terrible weather on the 18th and 19th inst. On the 19th a heavy sea struck her on the starboard bow and badly smashed two of the lifeboats.

The ship Annie M. Small, Captain Packer, arrived from Manila after a voyage of 142 days. She was ten days getting clear of the land, and during the gales then experienced three topsail yards were sprung She had bad weather and heavy gales until October 10, then calms and light winds for a long while. She was five days north of Hatteras with heavy gales.

The Department of State has, at the instance of the Governor of Illinois, asked the Canadian Government for the extradition of Lewis Herold, of Illinois, who is under indictment for forgery

Mr Hale has just introduced in the Senate a bill to relieve Emery S Wardell, formerly First Lieutenant of Company G, First Regiment of Maine Heavy Artillery Volunteers, of the findings of a court martial which directed his dismissal from the army of the United States

The Democratic Senate of Indiana has refused to submit the proposition of the last Legislature to submit a prohibitory amendment to the people by taking advantage of a quibble to the effect that the full text of the measure was not printed in the journal of the last session.

We copy on our first page to day a most excellent letter written by the estimable wife of Governor Roble to the members of a local grange but with no thought of its publication Every reader of it will be glad that so admirable a paper found its way into print, as its sound advice and winning portrayal of the happiness and usefulness of the home influence are alike creditable to the writer's head and heart

The gratification of the members of the G A R with the condition of the Department of Massachusetts, now made public is shared by hosts of sympathizers and friends That there should be an annual increase of membership nearly twenty years after the close of the war in which its members were in service is an evidence that the objects of the society have the approval of the soldier element of the community, and that those objects have been carried out in a manner that meets its approval —Traveller

William Parsons, a Swede by birth, who has lived twenty nine years in California and is now making a visit in Stockholm, has written to the Hon Thomas W Palmer, of Detroit, for information about land in Michigan He announces his intention of bringing to this country in April, preferably to Michigan, from 1,500 to 2 000 Swedish families provided he can secure a tract of land suitable for a colony of that size If it were possible, he writes, "I would like to locate them somewhere on a water front so as to lay out a town and settle the farmers around it"

The Louisville Courier Journal takes exceptions to the Blair Educational bill, which appropriates $105 000 000 for educational purposes principally in the South because the underlying object of the bill is to set up a Republican machine to manipulate the Southern vote The C J is right says the Boston Journal The school house is essentially a Republican machine Where school houses are most numerous and the public take the greatest interest in them Republican majorities are largest, that is, as a rule

Ex Governor Hendricks has been regarded as the great straddler in American politics and he seems to have infected his party's platforms in that State with the same failing The Evansville Courier, a leading Democratic paper in the State, says

By some strange fatality Democratic platforms in Indiana almost invariably treat the issues in which the people are most interested in an equivocal way The object is to "harmonize the elements as it is called thereby bringing Democrats who differ in opinion to the support of the party ticket" Indiana is not the only State where the Democrats are compelled to harmonize the elements" in this way The next National platform of the party will also have to contain some efficacious harmonizing qualities or there will be a beautiful shindy

Mr Rice from the Committee on Additional Appropriations for the Congressional Library reported to the House a substitute for the bill for a library building It differs from the original bill introduced by him for the same purpose in that it provides for the location of the building on any reservation in Washington which may be selected by a commission to consist of the Secretary of the Interior, the Architect of the Capitol and the Librarian of Congress The building is to be erected in accordance with the plan of John L Smithmeyer, in the style of architecture known as the Italian renaissance. It is to be built in sections and $500,000 is to be appropriated for the beginning of the work The original bill provided for the purchase of a site east of the Capitol and for the building of the structure complete under the first appropriation

The Tribune says Many people have still a vivid recollection of the horde of office seekers that bore down upon Washington in 1870 when the Democratic Congress of that year began its session It was the first Congress in sixteen years of which the party had controlled either House and the famished army that demanded sustenance was proportionately large The discredit then brought upon the party by the antics of Fitzhugh and Hamblet on is yet fresh in the public mind Some of the Democratic papers are making a frantic effort to put up the bars, in order, if possible, to prevent a repetition of these scenes at the opening of the next Congress A brilliant success, however, is not promised, as a majority of the party organs are on the lookout for their State's quota of the fat places

New York may be a wicked place, but it is too good to please the prize fighters Mace and Slade, at present the heroes of the rum shops and slums of the city, were arrested and the prize fight in disguise did not come off at Madison Square Garden as was intended Public opinion will sustain the authorities in this action Such a show as was advertised tends directly to a breach of the peace and of the law There is no use to call it a mere sparring exhibition. Everybody knew that it was to come as near the line of a prize fight as possible. It is an insult to the decent portion of the community to announce in such a place as the Madison Square Garden a performance to titillate a mob of Bowery ruffians Prize fighters and their "backers" do not rule New York city yet, and the sooner they find that out and take themselves off to more congenial climes the better for them. —Tribune

PROGRESS ON THE TARIFF

Both Houses of Congress did a good day's work on the tariff on Monday, and more was accomplished than could have been anticipated by any one who had followed the proceedings of previous days. There are evidences alike in the House and the Senate of a serious purpose to grapple with the question, and to arrive at the best solution that may be attainable in the time still left. The intimation that a special session of the next Congress is likely to be called, if this Congress fails to pass a Tariff bill, has had a very quickening effect upon the Democratic side of the House, and there were none of the willful delays and obstructions from that quarter which had been looked for The truth is that the Democrats, the shrewdest of them, at any rate, understand too well the difficulties of this question, and the divisions in their own ranks regarding it, to be willing to assume the position of obstructionists in the way of tariff legislation, with the result of having to deal with the matter on their own responsibility in the next Congress They would like to have the Republicans blunder and would be ready to take advantage of any blundering, but they would like to have the question disposed of in some way, rather than have an extra session convened for its adjustment

The course of Monday's debate disclosed the fact, which has all along been suspected, that your Democratic free-trader is not so much of a free-trader that he is averse to protecting his home interests When zinc was reached Mr Vest displayed his tenderness for it, and when wire rods were up for adjustment, Mr Bayard had not the heart to vote for any reduction These flagrant instances of defection on the part of eminent Democratic disciples of free trade lead to the conclusion that it may be necessary hereafter to define a free-trader as one who believes in free trade in all commodities except those which his constituents manufactures.—Boston Journal

MISSOURI'S FAVORITE SON

(Chicago Inter Ocean)

What the Inter Ocean has predicted ever since Frank James surrendered his pistols to the Governor of Missouri is coming to pass, and it is that this favorite son of Missouri will not be annoyed much longer by the restraints of the law It has been discovered that he is not guilty of murder and he is officially relieved from the odium of that crime, and held to $3,000 bail for the offense of robbery It will require but little time or effort to vindicate him from this vile slander, and then he will be as free as the air he breathes which is said to be the favorite condition of the bandit When the authorities of Missouri are through with Mr James, the authorities of Minnesota should pay him some attention, and probably will He never visited that State but once, and then under circumstances that somewhat interfered with his enjoyment He shot a bank cashier who refused to give up the combination that would open the vault but aroused a different class of people than those he was accustomed to in Missouri, and had the "closest call" of his life

Two of his gang were killed, three were captured and sent to the penitentiary for life, because the law did not tolerate hanging, and he, with his brother Jesse, managed to escape after a desperate flight of over four hundred miles through Minnesota, Iowa and Nebraska Mr James associates in this adventure were easily convicted and sentenced to the heaviest penalty known to the statutes of Minnesota The prosecuting officers of that State have no pity for such scoundrels the Governor is not in the habit of receiving the surrender with demonstrations of favor and admiration and the people do not cher sh any desire to make heroes out of black hearted bloody handed villains So if Mr James is sent for by the Governor of Minnesota with an invitation in the form of a requisition upon the Governor of Missouri for his precious body he may not expect the same genial hospitality that he has experienced in the neighborhood where he has been recently abiding

Another attempt to bring the demoralized Democratic army up to the camping ground last occupied by the Republican party is being made The Atlanta Post Appeal wants to be the leader in this latest movement. It is striving to get the Democracy to surrender State's rights and consent to a mild centralizing policy Inter State commerce, transportation public education and other great questions it thinks should be regulated by the National Government. "Southern Democrats, it says "are very sensibly coming to the conclusion that Nationalism with prosperity is preferable to State rights with poverty" The Post-Appeal has undertaken a difficult task

Your Carpets Dusted
A Good Odd Fellow.
Mr. Cutler, of 21 Lyons St., New Haven, Conn.—How He takes Life Easy now and how he obtained the Means to Regain his Health.
Mr Cutler, of 21 Lyons St., is a faithful Odd Fellow and for forty years a member of Quinnipiac Lodge No 1 (the oldest organization of its kind in the State of Conn) He is a man much respected in New Haven Your reporter found him at his pleasant home on Lyons street one afternoon taking life easy You see he says "I'm trying to make myself feel a little indisposed. I presume it's the lingering results of a Lodge dinner which I attended a while ago down at the beach I have been, as many of my friends in New Haven know, a sufferer for years from indigestion and biliousness When I have indulged in too hearty food I've had to suffer at times extremely As a result I've had to place myself under my physician's care often, and I have taken a great many remedies but I'll defy a thorough trial to find Kennedy's FAVORITE REMEDY is the most excellent medicine I have ever had knowledge of for any of the disorders above mentioned It leaves no exhaustive effect but rather strengthens and regulates the digestive organs in a charming manner We keep it as a household medicine and I have recommended it to my friends for it is an excellent preparation"
Mr Cutler is a man whose word can be depended upon His testimony is but a reflection of the words of thousands in New England who have received relief from the sole use of Dr Kennedy's FAVORITE REMEDY

Were the Words of a Good Lady, Mrs. Hawkins who has long Suffered the Pain Common to Chronic Rheumatism. A Woman's Patience and Fortitude well Shown.
our reporter found Mrs Hawkins at 14 Exchange St., New Haven, Conn "About four years ago, she said, "I was then a resident of Brooklyn, N Y. I went over one morning to the Jersey City depot to see some friends of mine who were starting for the west. There was a strong draft of air in the depot and in standing by the train talking to my friends I caught a severe cold I had no more than reached my home again when I was taken with a sudden chill and then fever set in The outcome of all was that rheumatism settled all over me I was entirely helpless. From this I have never recovered Look at my hands, what a state they are in These and all cranky swellings and my limbs are very bad While I received much in Brooklyn I tried all sorts of remedies but I could never gain any relief My physician said it was no use. I grew very thin and low all my strength. Finally, after coming here, I finally decided to take Dr Kennedy's FAVORITE REMEDY and my general health has been better than ever before I say stronger, have an excellent appetite, which I did not have for a long time It has helped my rheumatism and with a thorough trial I am in hopes of recovering completely"
Kennedy's FAVORITE REMEDY has been successfully used by thousands. It will build up a system which has been run down by overwork It is the thing for the student and literary man to have at hand and should be in the home of every mechanic. FAVORITE REMEDY is economical safe and pleasant Buy it and try it.

NO USE FOR THEM.
Concerning Certain Relics of the Past—Dogs that have had their Day.
George Stephenson's Rocket and the magnificent locomotives of to day are built upon the same general principle, yet too much so with which the great engineer astonished the age is interesting now only as an illustration of the beginning of the invention There were plasters with holes in them long before BENSON'S CALCINE PLASTER surprised both the public and the physicians and the triumph of the Calcine is founded upon the partial successes or the utter failures of its predecessor Everything of value in the old porous plaster is retained in the Calcine but at this point all comparison ends and contrast begins For example
The old plasters were slow in the reaction the Calcine is quick and sure
The old plasters lacked the power to do more than to impart slight, temporary relief in cases easy of treatment the Calcine penetrates the system and permanently cures the troubles for which it is recommended
The old plasters depended for any good results they might at any upon an accident of the remedies and the naked faith of their wearers, the Benson reaches its ends by means of the scientific combination of the active medicinal ingredients which it contains
In brief the old plasters in Stephenson's discarded engine are an relief off the track while the Benson goes on the way winning golden opinions from all sorts of people
Yet in this very fact lies the lending danger to the people who buy and use this reliable and scientific remedy Hypocrisy is the tribute vice pays to virtue Imitation is the concession that makes to success Benson's Plasters are parodied in name and style

MAINE NEWS.

FROM THE STATE CAPITAL.

DOINGS OF THE LEGISLATURE.

Special to Whig & Courier.

AUGUSTA, Jan. 31. The Legislature is working hard this week. Hearings are assigned before the committees for nearly every afternoon and evening. On Tuesday the Committee on the Judiciary gave two important hearings—one to petitioners asking for a reform in the divorce laws and another to gentlemen from Lewiston and Auburn interested in the horse railroad in those two cities. This afternoon the Hall of Representatives was crowded with those interested in the question of the restoration of the death penalty for murder in the first degree. There was also a hearing before the Committee on Insane Hospital for a new hospital at Bangor. To-morrow afternoon at two o'clock the Bodwell Water Company has a hearing before the Committee on Ways and Bridges. There have been few debates thus far, but to-morrow will be a field day in the House, as the report of the Committee on Temperance recommending a constitutional prohibitory amendment, comes up by assignment. Several eloquent speeches may be expected.

Divorce Reform.

There was an important hearing Tuesday afternoon before the Committee on the Judiciary on the question of amending the present divorce laws of the State. Rev. Geo. S. Dickerman, of Lewiston, Hon. Warren H. Vinton, of Grey, Hon. J. W. Bradbury and Rev. H. W. Tilden of Augusta and Rev. Geo. D. Lindsay and Rt. Rev. Bishop Neely, of Portland, appeared in advocacy of divorce reform. The committee decided to report a bill which will embody the legislation asked for. It is in substance a transcript of the Massachusetts statutes relating to divorce. The bill removes the discretionary power of the Judges and grants divorces only for certain specified causes. All divorces shall be decreed as conditional, to be made absolute after six months unless cause is shown against it. The libelee cannot marry again for two years and then only by consent of the Court. Five of the committee favored the bill, three opposed it, and the chairman did not vote. In the discussion Mr. Heath, of Augusta, related a professional anecdote which illustrates the demoralizing effect of the present divorce system upon the lower classes of society. One day last winter a burly laborer of Irish extraction stepped into his office and inquired:

"Can ye git a divarce for me by the first of March?"

"I don't know. You seem to be in a great hurry."

"I am, sor."

"What is your urgent necessity?"

"I've got a man warrud to another woman and I must have me divarce before I can get marrid again."

Revision of the Statutes.

The Committee on Revision of the Statutes meet Wednesday and Friday afternoons in the judiciary room. Two competing clerks are now employed and several more will have to be added. The committee are going over the report very carefully and critically, considering each one of Judge Goddard's numerous suggestions. Their progress is necessarily slow and forty pages is considered a good afternoon's work. If, as Judge Goddard recommends, the legislation of the present winter be incorporated into the forthcoming edition of the statutes, it may become necessary for the Legislature to until the committee can submit their report. Most of the gentlemen on the Committee on Revision of the Statutes are on other important committees and can devote but a modicum of their time to this work. After the Judiciary and Legal Affairs Committees clear up the assignments on their dockets their members can assist in the task of examining and perfecting the report. But it will then take a fortnight of hard uninterrupted labor before the committee can make their final report. In the meantime there will be little or nothing for the Legislature to do, and a recess can be taken until the statutes are ready for submission and acceptance. A quorum of both branches can then pass upon the work in short order and adjourn sine die. In my letters to THE WHIG I have steadily predicted a long session, and such this will undoubtedly be.

Congressional Apportionment.

Two reports will be submitted by the Committee on Congressional Apportionment—a majority report by Mr. Heath, of Augusta, signed by 14 members of the committee, and a minority report by Mr. Powers with seven signatures, including four Democrats. Mr. Powers' scheme for the divorcement of Piscataquis county from Penobscot will receive the ardent support of every member of the opposition in the House. He will then require 34 votes to get his report substituted for the majority report, but the Republican Representatives will be naturally suspicious of a plan which is so heartily approved by their political enemies.

Lands Among the Penobscot Indians.

On Tuesday Senator Weymouth, of Penobscot, introduced a bill to provide for the establishment of titles to lands among the Penobscot Indians, and for the preservation of evidence of such titles. The bill was referred to the Committee on Indian Affairs, who had it under consideration this afternoon and decided to report "ought to pass." As is well-known to your readers all the islands in the Penobscot above Oldtown constitute the reservation of the tribe which derives its name from that noble river. These islands are 146 in number, and vary in size from 1,438 acres—the largest—to 06 of an acre—the smallest—and contain in the aggregate 4,481 acres. Their value at the time the State surveyed them in 1835 was $61,247-64, exclusive of improvements, and their value has largely increased since. Prior to 1835 no provision had been made for the Indians of the Penobscot tribe to have individual proprietorship in the land, but each occupied what he pleased. In that year the Legislature authorized the allotment of land to them individually, but, to guard against improvidence, the statute forbade them to sell or transfer their lots. Very few of the original assignees of these lots, under the act of 1835, are living to-day, and the title has passed to their heirs; and, as no sale can lawfully right, the lands would be sub-divided to such an extent as to be useless, even if the question of buildings did not embarass the division. The Indians have traded with one another, contrary to the statute, until very few titles rest on a legal basis. The tribe is comparatively ignorant of the condition of things among them; but if some pettifogger, with a disposition to breed law suits, should be let loose among them there might be no end of trouble. Mr. Weymouth's bill recommends the appointment of a commission, by "the Governor and Council, to establish the property lines of each proprietor, and to put them on a legal basis. L.

[Associated Press.]

AUGUSTA, Jan. 31. Both branches have extended the time for the reception of petitions to February 3.

Senate.

A bill was presented to change the name of the Mercantile Home for Aged Men. FROM WASHINGTON.

A Pension Case Favorably Reported.

BOSTON, Jan. 31. The Journals' Washington dispatch says: Mr. Dawes, from the Committee on Pensions, just made a favorable report in the case of Helen M. Thayer, of Maine, widow of Charles H Thayer, late private in Company C, 10th Regiment, Maine Volunteers. Thayer was severely wounded in the leg while in line of duty for which he received a pension. The wound continued to cause him much suffering until 1881 when he committed suicide. The ground on which the claim is based is that the suffering from his wound and fear that he would be unable to support his wife and six small children preyed on his mind so much that he became insane and that in fact insanity and death resulted from the wound.

The pension office refused to grant the pension under these circumstances to Mrs. Thayer, as it did in the case of Mrs. Goldman, which was of a similar character, but the Forty-seventh Congress, at its first session, decided unanimously to grant the pension.

Mr. Ladd, of Maine, has just introduced a bill granting a pension to Charles H Dudley, late private in 4th Battery, Maine Light Infantry.

A TORNADO IN PORTLAND.

No Serious Damage.

PORTLAND, Jan. 31. A tornado of brief duration visited the city this afternoon, tearing off signs, blowing down chimneys and causing a commotion at the North School. No serious damage was done, except the breaking of Mr. Patten's cellar door by the upsetting of his sleigh.

.... Jan. 31.—Messrs. Dawes and Aldrich presented petitions for the reduction of the duty on sugar. Mr. Miller, of California, of the Committee on Foreign Relations, reported favorably the bill to incorporate the Maritime Canal Company of Nicaragua with amendments. Mr. Hawley introduced a bill for the retirement of Quarter Master General Rufus Ingalls with the rank of Major General. Mr. Garland called up the bill to provide for holding a centennial cotton and industrial exhibition in 1884, which passed.

Mr. Blair called up the joint resolution presenting the thanks of Congress to John F. Slater, of Connecticut, for his beneficence in giving $1,000,000 for the education of the colored people of the South, which was passed. On motion of Mr. Plumb the Senate insisted upon its amendment, to the Post Office Appropriation bill and ordered a Committee of Conference. The Senate then took up the Tariff bill.

Mr. Voorhees made an argument against the proposed reduction on sugar, which was debated by Messrs. Beck, Kellogg and Sherman. The debate was continued by Messrs. Hale, Saulsbury, Aldrich, Hoar, Williams, Kellogg, Bayard and Hawes. Mr. Aldrich's amendment offered yesterday to the substitute proposed by Mr. Morrill for the schedule originally reported by the Committee on Finance, was rejected, ayes 21, nays 32. Mr. McPherson's substitute for the same was also rejected without discussion.

Mr. Frye offered an amendment making the duty on sugars of all grades forty per cent. ad valorem and on molasses 25 per cent. Mr. Frye said that Mr. Aldrich's proposition would make the duty on sugar 43 per cent., the committee's schedule 46 per cent., and Mr. McPherson's 50 per cent. A debate followed by Messrs. Coke, Maxey, Morrill and Sherman.

The House resolutions in relation to the death of the late Representative Orth, of Indiana, were received. Messrs. Harrison, Frye and Voorhees made appropriate addresses and at 4:05 P. M. the Senate adjourned.

House.

Mr. Reed, of Maine, from the Committee on Rules, reported back the resolution providing that hereafter the daily sessions of the House shall extend until 6 P. M.; laid over one day under the rules.

On motion of Mr. Caswell, of Wisconsin, the Senate amendments were concurred in to the House joint resolution making an appropriation for continuing the work of the 10th census.

The House then went into Committee on the Tariff bill. Mr. Carlisle, of Kentucky, moved to reduce the duty on alum, etc., from 60 to 40 cents per 100 pounds; agreed to, Mr. Kasson, of Iowa, and Mr. Anderson, of Kansas, being the only Republicans voting in the affirmative.

Mr. Flower, of New York, moved to strike out the item placing a duty of 10 per cent. on the sulphate and salts of quinia and chinchoidia. He was willing, he said, to take the side of the men who were suffering from fever.

Mr. Kelley, of Pennsylvania, opposed this. Mr McKenzie, of Kentucky, author of the Free Quinine bill, said that no bill ever passed by Congress had met with such united praise from the country. The Committee on Ways and Means appeared here as counsel for the plaintiff in the case of the quinine manufacturers against the people and he desired his name to be entered as counsel for the defence. He was a poor lawyer, but he believed that he could plead successfully before the great jury which at the last election had brought in a verdict of guilty against the Republican party without any recommendation of mercy.

After debate the House struck from the bill an item placing a duty of 10 per cent. on sulphate and salts of quinia and chinchoidia. The vote stood 103 to 57 and the result was received with applause on the Democratic side.

The item placing a duty of five cents per pound on refined borax having been reached Mr. Page, of California, moved to amend by adding the following: Fine boracic acid, 5 cents per pound, commercial boracic acid and crude borax three cents per pound; agreed to. The propositions made by Mr. Carlisle, of Kentucky, and Mr Springer, of Illinois, reducing the duty on cement, were rejected. Mr. Carlisle moved to reduce the duty on dry whiting and paris white from three-fourths to one quarter of a cent per pound; lost 74 to 79. On motion of Mr. Kasson, of Iowa, the rate was fixed at one-half cent per pound. Having completed consideration of 52 of the 160 items of the chemical schedule the committee rose.

Appropriate resolutions in honor of the memory of the late Godlove S. Orth, were submitted by Mr. Brown, of Indiana. Several eulogistic addresses were delivered, the resolutions adopted and the House as an additional mark of respect to the memory of the deceased, at 4 45 P. M., adjourned.

NEW YORK

An Important Decision.

NEW YORK, Jan. 31. A decision was handed down yesterday by the Court of Appeals in the case of John Ryan vs the Police Board. Ryan was a police officer, and in May, 1877, was stricken with paralysis and has since never been able to do duty. He was put on half pay, but claimed full pay alleging that his disease was caused by being struck with stone while taking a prisoner to the station. The lower courts decided against Ryan, but now the Court of Appeals decides in his favor. This case carries with it that of every police officer whose pay has been curtailed by reason of sickness for years, and loads the department at once with an enormous debt aggregating hundreds of thousands of dollars. It will also wipe out almost entirely the pension fund, whose chief source of revenue was the sick pay deductions. A special legislation will at once be sought to meet the difficulty.

ALABAMA'S TREASURER

Among the Missing, Leaving a Deficit of $200,000.

MONTGOMERY, Jan. 31. Great excitement prevails here. The committee to examine the books and accounts of State Treasurer Vincent were to begin their examination yesterday. Vincent left the city Monday night. A letter from him to his chief clerk was delivered to the latter yesterday afternoon and was laid before the Governor. Vincent said he was behind but was going to New York to get money which the letter indicated he had loaned. An examination of the books of the cashier and others, late last night, shows that Vincent speculated largely in cotton futures. The deficit as far as gathered is between $200,000 and $300,000. The Governor will send a message on the subject to the Legislature.

The provision in the original bill prescribing the dimensions of the canal and locks has been stricken out and the following added: The United States may exercise such control over the canal as is now, or may at any time be, provided by treaty with Nicaragua, or consistent with the rights of that government, and shall enjoy its free use in accordance with such treaty, or rights, and should the United States see fit for national reasons to using the canal during such subsequent years bears to tonnage which passed through the canal during the year prior to its occupation by the Government of the United States providing for any one year shall not exceed the sum necessary to enable the company to meet its obligations and to divide 10 per cent. upon its capital stock, after having reserved 5 per cent. of the amount received each year for the improvement and extension of the canal and its terminal points, and for deterioration of property.

AN OLD BANK NOTE. Chas. A. Black writes from Newcastle, Me., to the Oxford Democrat as follows "In examining the papers of my late father I found an old State bank bill on the Veazie Bank of Bangor in a forgotten box of dusty papers. For the curiosity of the thing, I sent it to the Veazie National Bank, the successor of the State bank of the same name, with a request to redeem if they had funds of the old bank. I was agreeably surprised to receive by return mail a greenback in exchange for the old bill. So it seems that the old Veazie Bank is as true as ever to its old good reputation, and pays its notes with as much freedom as if it had not gone out of existence many years ago."

BOWDOIN COLLEGE. The Argus says: The college is unusually quiet since the suspension of the Sophomore class and the interest, though subdued, is intense. The Faculty have held numerous meetings lately, but it is impossible to learn what was done. The five men first suspended were in Brunswick, Tuesday, in obedience to a summons from President Chamberlain and held a conference with him. Several other Sophomores have also been summoned and are in town. They seem firm in their determination, and as the Faculty appear equally determined, it is of course impossible to foresee the result. There are numerous conjectures at large in the college, but as there are no facts from official sources no reliance can be placed in them.

THE DEXTER BANK CASE. The hearing in the case of the Dexter Savings Bank against the Barron estate is still in progress in Dexter. The auditors are Judge S. F. Humphrey and John S. Ricker, Esq., both of this city, and very familiar with banking affairs. The case is being prosecuted by Messrs. Drummond and Crosby for the plaintiffs and Stewart and Pierce for the defence. The amount of claims made by the Bank against the Barron estate on account of alleged defalcations is about $5,000. From the plaintiffs' standpoint Mr. Barron was a defaulter and suicide, but the defence claim that while he had loose ways of keeping his books he did not owe the bank anything and that his memory has been wrongfully assailed. Several witnesses have already been examined and the hearing will probably continue throughout the week.

DEATH OF REV. RANSOM DUNHAM. The Rev. Ransom Dunham, one of the oldest Baptist ministers in the State, and who has resided at Bryant's Pond for thirty years or more, died Sunday at his home in his 85th year. Mr. Dunham was widely known throughout Maine. His father, an old Revolutionary soldier, came from Bridgewater, Mass., in the latter part of the last century and settled at Hebron, where his son was born in 1798. Mr. Dunham on reaching maturity settled at Paris Hill, where he was for some time the village blacksmith. In 1824 he married Miss Susan Jackson, daughter of Lemuel Jackson, Jr., of Paris, and removed to Parkman where he worked at his trade and also began to preach. In 1833 he removed to Bangor, and four years later to Woodstock, during which year he was ordained to the work of the ministry and installed over the Baptist church in Hamlin's Gore and North Woodstock. Mr. Dunham remained the pastor of this church twenty-five years. During these years he also did much missionary work, travelling and preaching through a large part of Oxford, Hancock, York and Cumberland counties. He administered the rite of baptism to over 600 persons. Some thirty years ago Mr. Dunham moved to Bryant's Pond and spent the remainder of his life in that place. He took a great interest in horticulture, and for many years his garden of fruits, flowers and vegetables attracted the attention of his neighbors and strangers visiting in the neighborhood.

A FARM... CLUB.

Interesting Session Yesterday at Brewer.

The meetings of the Penobscot Farmers' Club, at Pine Grove Hall, Brewer, yesterday, was largely attended, the hall being crowded to its utmost capacity. R. W. Murch, the President, presided over the meeting. The papers read at the opening of the discussion, which will be found on our fourth page, were listened to with deep interest, after which the question was discussed by various members, and considered in all its bearings.

The prevailing opinion appeared to be that all coarse fodder, in order to be of benefit to stock, must be cut before it turned to a woody fibres, and fed with some concentrated provender like corn or cotton-seed meal.

Mr. Fowler, of Waldo County, was of the opinion that a good pasture, with plenty of good, sweet feed during the summer, would enable young cattle to use up the best of coarse fodder without detriment—they would gain slowly in winter but very fast in summer. He believes that good pastures are of the utmost importance to Maine farmers. Peter C Baker, Mr Comins, of Eddington, Gregory, of Hampden, George and Hincks, of Orrington, and Calvin Whitney, of Newburg, took part in the discussion.

J. R Farrington was called upon and responded in a very happy and entertaining manner. This being his former home, where he has always been held in the highest esteem, the hearty greeting given him by his old neighbors must have been very gratifying.

Mr. W. E. Gibbs, of Glenburn, has fed his stock on coarse fodder at different times and always found they shrank under such treatment. They could not be made to eat it without cheating, by mixing it with some kind of good fodder. Good meadow hay with meal could be fed profitably. He had sold some years a portion of his best hay, because he was obliged to do so, but did not believe in it—it should be fed to stock and the surplus stock sold instead.

A vote of thanks, on motion of Mr. Freeman, of Veazie, was given to the ladies and gentlemen living in the vicinity of Pine Grove for their kind attentions and ample provision made for entertaining the club. Whenever the club has met at this place the meetings have been very large and pleasant, and there being no dining hall connected with it, makes the work of providing dinners very arduous. Therefore, when it was proposed by Hooper Chase, Esq., of this city, who is cultivating a farm in the vicinity, to lead off in raising a contribution with a generous sum, it was heartily seconded by the members living at a distance and nearly $20 was raised, and with what can be had in other directions a commodious dining hall will soon be added.

The next meeting will be held at Orrington Corner, opposite Hampden, lower village; subject, Associated Butter Dairying.

AMUSEMENTS.

"Mab, the Miner's Daughter."

Miss Carrie Swain will appear this evening at the Opera House in her new play of "Mab, the Miner's Daughter." This vivacious actress played in Portland last evening, and this is what the Press said of star and play:

The piece is of the old-fashioned melo-dramatic order with considerable of the business which made "Cad, the Tomboy," so attractive. There are startling situations, remarkable denouements, while in all, Miss Swain is ever flitting about, full of tireless spirit and seemingly unwearied vitality. She sings, dances, and we might say, prances about from the rising up to the going down of the curtain, though the entire action of the play maintaining her character with the strictest attention to the minutest details. The support last evening was good. The audience large and generously appreciative. The piece will be repeated to-night. Miss Swain was complimented last evening with a call before the curtain.

La Belle Russe

will be presented at the Opera House on Wednesday evening next by Miss Jeffreys Lewis and the same company which has been characterized by the press of Philadelphia, Chicago, St. Louis, Cincinnati and other large cities, as one of the strongest dramatic combinations on the road this season. "La Belle Russe" is a play which deals with phases of life rarely treated by dramatic authors, and is pronounced about faultless in construction, intensely interesting in its situations and climaxes. It ran for over one hundred nights at Wallack's Theatre in New York last season, and proved the greatest success yet produced at the house. Miss Jeffreys Lewis is an artist of rare talent, and has achieved by her interpretation of the role of the "Beautiful Russian," a reputation that places her beside Miss Clara Morris and Mlle. Bernhardt. The "La Belle Russe" Company is playing this week in Montreal, and visits Bangor on its way thence to Boston, where it opens at the Globe Theatre, Feb. 12.

Virginius.

The simple announcement of John McCullough's appearance in "Virginius" at the Opera House, on Thursday evening, Feb. 8, will fill our play-goers with gratification. Mr. McCullough is enormously successful everywhere, and will fill the house here to its very utmost capacity.

V. E. EATON ON "COARSE FODDER FEEDING."

It seems to be one of the laws of nature that we can have no one blessing without its attendant evil. I can think of no exception, unless it be a Farmer's Club dinner, and even here we are apt to eat so much, that we don't feel well the next day. The mill man has his sawdust and slabs in order to get lumber; the sculptor has his chips and marble dust as an attendant to his statue; and in order to raise wheat and corn, the farmer must have "coarse fodder."

Perhaps there is no one thing about farm economy, on which there is such a variety of opinions as there is concerning straw. It is like a long nose, we don't want it, but have got it and must keep it; now what use shall we put it to? Out west they burn straw for fuel for their straw threshers. Here, we run it through the manger, let the cattle smell of it, put it under them for bedding, pass it into the cellar and call it manure. Next summer the plants we raise on it will have a different opinion. We bank our buildings with straw, we try to rot it, we sell it, we give it away; and several farmers that I know, hate it so badly that they try to crush it out of existence by lying on it eight good hours out of every twenty-four.

Corn fodder, as I take it here means waste product that farmers obtain in raising crops of several grains. It contains quite a quantity of heat-giving, fat-forming substances (woody fibre mainly), that our chemists call carb-hydrates. Its uses in animal economy is to supply heat and produce fat, and feed with some other article that makes lean meat (muscle), straw, corn stalks and other like fodder can contribute much towards the winter ration.

As the chief ingredient of value in straw is woody fiber, it is desirable to cut it before it is "dead ripe" in order to get the most out of it, for over ripe straw is nearly as indigestible as pine chips. Now it has been proved by actual tests that for every part of flesh forming material, an animal requires five parts of fat formers. (I think perhaps in our cold county, with many barns too, well ventilated, one to six is nearer the ratio) so by adding cotton seed, meal, clover, hay or ever pea and bean vines to our coarse fodder rations, it is found that we can feed our straw out clean and at a good profit.

One word here about clover hay. At our Bangor meeting, you remember, Mr Sec'y Gilbert said that straw and clover hay in equal quantities, mixed, made a feed equal to good English hay. Well I have since tried it. I had a pair of steers that had seen sorrow, and I said I will give them straw and clover and they shall call it hay. I mixed up a sling of it and gave it them. They ate the clover up all clean, picked it all out just as you would beans from buttons, and I had the straw left to mix again. I think a ton of straw fed on that plan would last those steers thro' this century and quite a piece into the next.

But mix them up well and run the compound through a hay cutter, and I have no doubt it will do as well, if not better, than our average hay. To me the problem is like this. Straw, etc, fed alone, will sustain life, but fed with clover or some of our flesh-forming diets it will pay, and pay well to feed it. Besides this there is a great waste in feeding straw alone. Average farm animals require five fat forming atoms to one flesh former, but straw contains fifty fat formers to one flesh former, so for every pound of flesh former a creature procures from straw, it is obliged to waste forty five pounds of fat formers in order to get it. This is not just the ratio, but straw, if rich in anything, is rich in carb hydrates, and likewise poor in nitrogen.

It is as if you were to go up to Bangor to a hotel, and call for beefsteak and potatoes. Well, bye and bye a waiter comes along and fetches you a bushel of mashed potatoes and a piece of steak as big as an old fashioned twenty-five cent scrip. You fall to and eat a spoonful of the potatoes and all of the steak, and not having enough call for another. The waiter comes and says, "Did you want anything, sir?" You say, "Steak, if you please." "But, Sir," says the waiter, "You haven't eaten all your potatoes yet." Then you would reply, "I did not call for potatoes, it is steak I want." Then you are informed that in that hotel for every ounce of beefsteak a guest consumes, he is obliged to eat sixty pounds of potatoes. Do you suppose a landlord would make money who ran a hotel on these principles? Yet that is the way we treat our stock, and then we wonder why farmers don't make money any faster.

Not is this all—There is not only a profit in feeding coarse fodder wisely, but there is also profit in raising it. There is no crop that produces so much fuel with so little exhaustion to the land, as the corn crop. To be sure it wants good land, but it leaves it nearly as well off as it finds it, and besides producing a crop of grain it gives us large stores of stalks to draw from, that are rich in 5/6 of all the composition of the animal body, only wanting judicious feeding to make them pay many times their cost.

With one especial application I will close. On our heavy clay meadow lands of this Penobscot basin with its broad grass fields, nodding with Timothy and ablaze with Alsike, it seems that hay is the only crop that will pay. At least, so it seems to me. But are we not in error? Every ton of hay we sell takes away compounds that will cost us $7 to go into the market and replace. Is it not possible for us to return this fertility on our farms—yes, add to it, even and still make money? In other places, associated dairying, butter and skim-milk cheese factories are making their patrons wealthy, and all rely upon the corn crop as a main stay.

Our seasons are so short here that perhaps corn will not do well to ripen, but canning sweet corn is an industry that is yet in its infancy, and if we cannot raise ripe, we can certainly raise green, corn here. That it pays, is the testimony of all who have had aught to do with it.

The stalks alone—rich in sugar and starch as well as woody fiber—more than paying for the cost of all the crop.

Let the Penobscot Co. Farmers' Club as an association look the matter up, and if there be any way by which we can improve our husbandry, by all means let us do so.

I, for one, believe it will pay, and hope to see the day when we shall rely on coarse fodder from that source as the corner stone of our business. Then shall we know more, have better dwellings, better farms, better farmers and better essays at our farmers' clubs.

J. E. SHAW ON "CHEMICAL RELATIONS OF FODDER."

This is a question that every farmer is interested in, and one of great importance, for all farmers have more or less coarse fodder to dispose of every year.

And this question of whether it can be fed at a profit or whether it must be disposed of in some other way, is a perplexing one to many farmers at the present time, and we think the opinion of the majority of the farmers is, that it is not fed at a profit, and, that being the fact, what is the remedy?

We would say in answer to this question, let us as sensible men and farmers strive to inform ourselves, as we have the knowledge within our reach, that we may know what the true value of our coarse fodder is as compared with our best English hay, if we will avail ourselves of the privileges we have of studying the experiments that have been tried in this country and Germany, testing the value of various kinds of cattle feeds.

And at this time we think we could gain more information from a few extracts from these experiments than from any other source, for all farm animals, under different circumstances, and at various times, receive many different kinds and amounts of fodder; yet science has shown that the substances which the animals really digest and appropriate out of these diverse materials are essentially of four kinds, and these are first, Protein. This name is given to a group of bodies, also known as albumenoids, more or less resembling egg albumen, (or the white of an egg,) or lean meat, in composition and properties. They all contain the element nitrogen as a characteristic ingredient, and are found in all plants and all parts of plants, though commonly in rather small quantity. The protein of plants is the sole source of the protein of the animal body. Second, Carbohydrates are bodies of the starch group. In the plant this group includes the woody fibre, starch, sugar, and other substances. Third, Fat. The fats of the plant are very much like those of the animal body, but occur only in small proportions in most plants. Fourth, Ash. A portion of the mineral matter, or ashes, of plants is also digested, and goes to nourish both the bones and the various soft tissues, all of which contain certain mineral substances which are essential to the health of our animals, and the real nourishment, the matter which our animals digest out of their food is composed essentially of these four kinds of substances, and scientific investigations have shown that, to produce the best results in any given case, certain quantities and preparations of these substances, especially of the first three, are necessary.

It has been found that with milch cows the best results are obtained, on the average, when they digest out of their food about two and five-sixteenths pounds of protein, twelve and five-sixteenths pounds of carbohydrates, and four sixteenths pounds of fat per day, and the organic matter of the ration will properly amount to about twenty-four pounds per day.

This statement is called a feeding standard, and serves to present the result of many experiments and observations.

This fall, having a large amount of coarse fodder, and only milch cows to feed it to, I thought I would try the experiment of feeding it to them being governed by the experiments I could refer to.

The first thing for us to ascertion was the feeding value of my coarse fodder as compared with good English hay, as a standard feed, and by investigation we found that the hay contained seven per cent. of protein, forty-two per cent. of carbohydrates, and two per cent of fat, and oat straw four per cent. of protein, twenty-one per cent of carbohydrates, and one per cent of fat. Then the question was this, what amount of cotton seed meal and shorts will make my coarse fodder a standard feed for my cows to milk, three from six to eight years old, the other three heifers, all except one heifer dropped their calves last spring, she dropped hers in September.

By weighing we find that about one hundred pounds of straw and hay a day, for the six cows, with three and one-half pounds of cotton seed meal, and the same weight of shorts, to each cow, given at two feeds, makes a daily ration that gives good results.

The cost of this feed for twenty one days is $7, for hay, meal and shorts, $10 50. Butter made from twenty-one days milk, besides supplying a family of ten persons with milk and cream, has been eighty pounds, which has been sold at an average price of 30 cents a pound, which amounts to $21 30, giving a profit of $10 80 on feed consumed, and not make any account of the new milk and cream used in family, or the skimmed milk fed the pigs which would amount to several dollars, and we think that we can safely call the profit one hundred per cent. on the feed consumed.

Now, if we can feed our coarse fodder to our cows and make it profitable, is there any good reason why it can't be fed to any stock at a profit, if we will only put some of the many kinds of concentrated feeds with it, so we shall make a standard feed of it? We think this is a question that is worthy of our earnest consideration.

SCROFULA

and all scrofulous diseases, Sores, Erysipelas, Eczema, Blotches, Ringworm, Tumors, Carbuncles, Boils and Eruptions of the Skin, are the direct result of an impure state of the blood.

To cure these diseases the blood must be purified, and restored to a healthy and natural condition. AYER'S SARSAPARILLA has for over forty years been recognized by eminent medical authorities as the most powerful blood purifier in existence. It frees the system from all foul humors, enriches and strengthens the blood, removes all traces of mercurial treatment, and proves itself a complete master of all scrofulous diseases.

A Recent Cure of Scrofulous Sores.

"Some months ago I was troubled with scrofulous sores (ulcers) on my legs. The limbs were badly swollen and inflamed and the sores discharged large quantities of offensive matter. Every remedy I tried failed, until I used AYER'S SARSAPARILLA, of which I have now taken three bottles, with the result that the sores are healed, and my general health greatly improved. I feel very grateful for the good your medicine has done me. Yours respectfully, MRS. ANN O'BRIAN." 148 Sullivan St., New York, June 24, 1882.

All persons interested are invited to call on Mrs. O'Brian, also upon the Rev. Z. P. Wilds of 78 East 54th Street, New York City, who will take pleasure in testifying to the wonderful efficacy of Ayer's Sarsaparilla, not only in the cure of this lady, but in his own case and many others within his knowledge.

The well known writer on the Boston Herald, B. W. BALL, of Rochester, N. H., writes, June 7, 1882: "Having suffered severely for some years with Eczema, and having failed to find relief from other remedies, I have made use, during the past three months of AYER'S SARSAPARILLA, which has effected a complete cure. I consider it a magnificent remedy for all blood diseases."

Ayer's Sarsaparilla

stimulates and regulates the action of the digestive and assimilative organs, renews and strengthens the vital forces, and speedily cures Rheumatism, Neuralgia, Rheumatic Gout, Catarrh, General Debility, and all diseases arising from an impoverished or corrupted condition of the blood, and a weakened vitality.

It is incomparably the cheapest blood medicine, on account of its concentrated strength, and great power over disease.

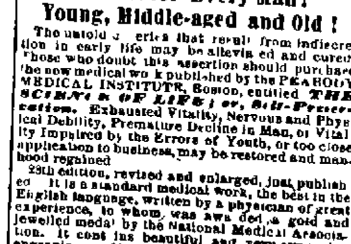
MANHOOD.



KNOW THYSELF.

A Book for Every Man! Young, Middle-aged and Old!

The untold miseries that result from indiscretion in early life may be alleviated and cured. Those who doubt this assertion should purchase the new medical work published by the PEABODY MEDICAL INSTITUTE, Boston, entitled THE SCIENCE OF LIFE; or, Self-Preservation. Exhausted Vitality, Nervous and Physical Debility, Premature Decline in Man, or Vital Ity Impaired by the Errors of Youth, or too close application to business, may be restored and manhood regained.

Two hundredth edition, revised and enlarged, just published. It is a standard medical work, the best in the English language, written by a physician of great experience, to whom was awarded a gold and jewelled medal by the National Medical Association. It contains beautiful and very expensive engravings. 300 pages, more than 125 valuable prescriptions for all forms of diseases, acute and chronic, the result of many years of extensive and successful practice, either one of which is worth ten times the price of the book. Bound in beautiful French cloth, embossed, full gilt. Price only $1.25, by mail, postpaid, on receipt of price. Illustrated sample six cents. Send now.

THE SCIENCE OF LIFE; OR, SELF-PRESERVATION, is beyond all comparison the most extraordinary work on Physiology ever published. There is nothing whatever that the married or single can either require or wish to know but what is fully explained.—London Lancet.

THE SCIENCE OF LIFE; OR SELF-PRESERVATION, is a marvel of art and beauty, warranted to be a better medical book in every sense than can be obtained elsewhere for double the price, or the money will be refunded in every instance.—Author.

N. B.—YOUNG and MIDDLE AGED MEN can save much time, suffering and expense by reading the science of Life, or conferring with the author, who may be consulted on all diseases requiring skill and experience. Address

Peabody Medical Institute, or W. H. Parker, M. D., 4 Bulfinch Street, Boston, Mass.
